

Arkengarthdale 1911

18 households in 1911 contained Kiplings of the Arkengarthdale family group, only one of which was still in the dale itself. All were descended from the William Kipling who was born in Arkengarthdale in 1768 (see The Kiplings of Arkengarthdale \(one-name.net\)).

The family of Jonathan Kipling

Jonathan was the first to leave the dale. He had married a Margaret Rutter in 1811 and had sons Robert (1812) and Jonathan (1825). He then moved to Middleton-in-Teesdale, where a Margery Kipling died in 1827. In 1832, Jonathan married Elizabeth Horn at Middleton.

Eric was a railway porter. During WW1, he served as a stoker, mainly on HMS Dublin. Dublin was a light cruiser and saw action as part of the Grand Fleet at the Battle of Jutland in May 1916, sinking a destroyer but also receiving considerable damage from incoming fire, although luckily with few casualties.

Donald Seager Kipling appealed against call-up in 1917.

In the case of Donald S. Kipling (24, single, B1), of 5, Springfield-road, a joint application was made by his employer, Mr. Thomas Garnish, gardener, and by his mother, Mrs Kipling, a widow.—Mr. Garnish said the man had been in his employ as a gardener for nine years, and was indispensable to him.—Mrs. Kipling said her son was practically her sole support.—The recommendation of the Advisory Committee was that no exemption should be granted.—The military representative thought Mr. Garnish could get casual labour.—Mr. Garnish: That is no good. They are more of a hindrance than a help when you have got them. It is a waste of time running about after them.—Mr. Toller said that in regard to Mrs Kipling's application, if her son was called up she would not be in a worse position financially than she was at present, as she would be granted an allowance—Questioned by a member of the Tribunal, Kipling said he was rejected when he was first medically examined. On the last occasion the doctor asked him what his work was, and he replied "gardening." The doctor then said that if he was able to do that he was able to do military duty.—The Tribunal dismissed the application, but the man was not to be called up for six weeks.—Mr. Kipling asked if he could have another examination.—The Chairman: Perhaps the military will grant it.—Mr. Toller promised to do his best.

North Devon Journal - Thursday 05 July 1917

He was not successful, as he was conscripted into the Labour Corps.

He was discharged in 1920.

Donald married Florence Sweeney in 1927 and died in 1929. They had no children.

Sarah Jane died in 1941. She, Jonathan, Douglas, Florence and Donald are buried together in Holy Trinity churchyard, Ilfracombe.

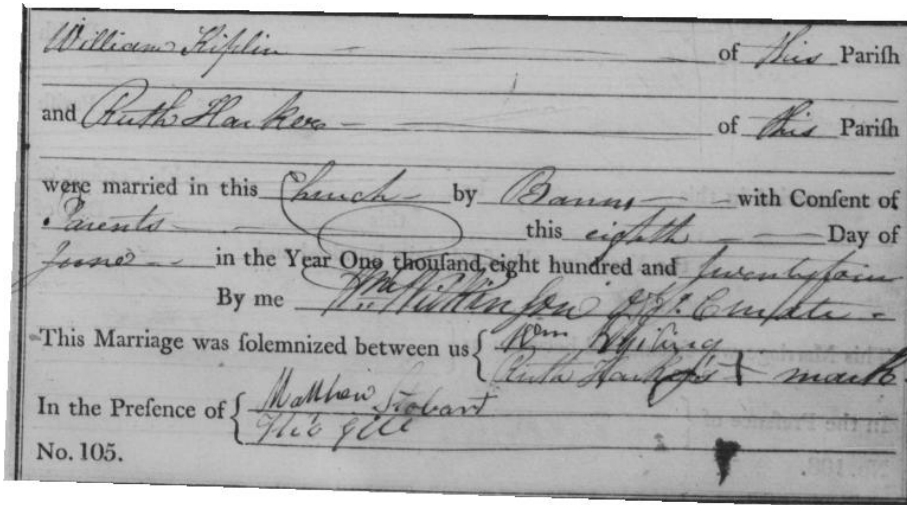

There is also a memorial to Donald in Marlborough Road Cemetery, Ilfracombe, placed by wife Florence, as it also mentions her mother Susan Sweeney and an infant niece, Christine Bragg.

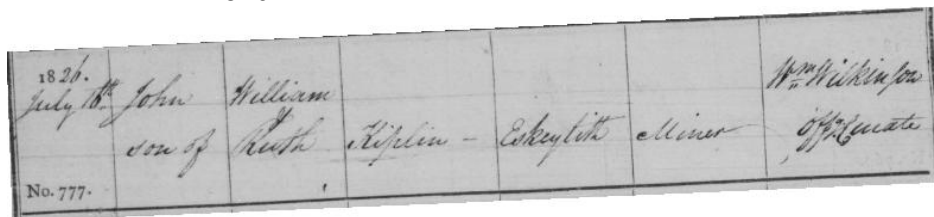

The family of William Kipling

William married Ruth Harker in 1824.

Son John was born in 1826.

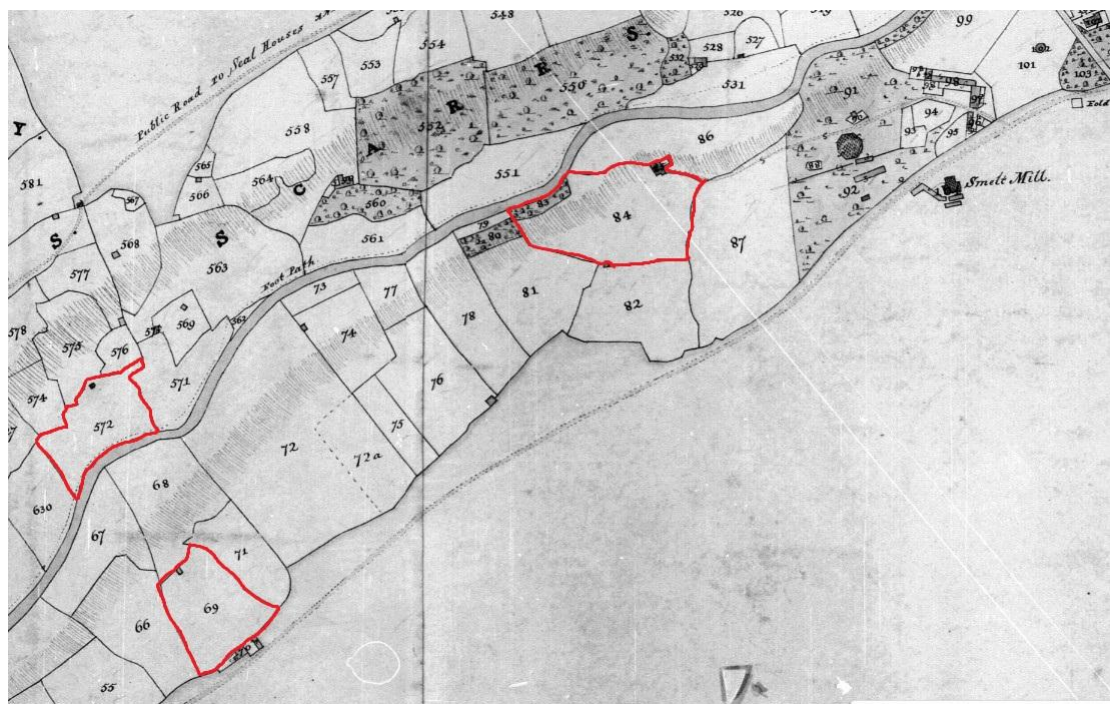

By 1832, they had moved from Eskelith to Swallow Holme (aka Solo Holme), where second son William was born.

Eldest son John (24) and his wife Eleanor (nee Hillery, m 1847) were living at nearby Plantation House with young sons William (3) and John (1) of their own.

Jane had an illegitimate daughter, Mary Ann, in 1854 and died of consumption four years later.

Jonathan, George, Margaret and Mary Ann were still living with William and Hannah at Swallow Holm in 1861. William died in 1862 of 'miners' asthma'.

ARKINGARTHDALE.

On Sunday week the remains of the late Mr George Kipling, of Toft Hill, near Bishop Auckland, late of Toft Hill, near Bishop Auckland, who was accidentally killed in a coal pit on the 8th inst. at Bishop Auckland, were interred in the burial ground of St. Mary's Church, Arkingarthdale, in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends. The friends went to meet the corpse at a distance of two miles from the church to show their respect and sympathetic feeling.

Richmond & Ripon Chronicle - Saturday 24 October 1874

Ralph returned to the dale and in 1881 was living with his grandmother Tamar Stoddart.

NO CONTROL OVER HIS HORSES.—A youth named Ralph Kipling, of Arkengarthdale, was summoned for committing a breach of the Highway Act, by having no control over his horses on the Reeth road on the 13th inst. Superintendent Holmes and Sergeant Hardy, when driving out, met the defendant with two horses and carts to which no reins were attached. They had to pull into the side of the road to get past. A fine of 1s. and 5s. costs was imposed. The practice of going to sleep on the top of carts on the Reeth-road has become a very common one.

Yorkshire Gazette - Saturday 28 July 1894

Ralph married Isabella Thomas in 1897. In 1901, he was living and working as a carter at a timber yard near Darlington and his wife and young daughter, Tamar Isabella, were living nearby with her mother.

William Harker Kipling does not appear to have been recorded in the 1861 UK census and it is possible that he was the William Kipling who arrived in Victoria, Australia on board the Caribou in March 1858. The next definite record of him emerges only in 1876, when he married in Bendigo, Victoria.

On the 20th November, at St Andrew's Manse, Sandhurst, by the Rev James Nish, William H. Kipling, carpenter, Bridgewater, to Mary Ann, eldest daughter of the late Joseph Hall, cooper, Sandhurst.

Marriage notice of William Harker Kipling

He worked there as a carpenter, dying in 1910.

Mr. William Harker Kipling died at his residence, Reginald-street, Quarry Hill, on Friday, after a protracted illness, at the age of 78 years. The deceased gentleman was a native of Yorkshire, England, but had lived in this State for 53 years. Four daughters and one son are left to mourn their loss. The funeral took place on Sunday, and was largely attended, his remains being interred in the Anglican section of the Bendigo Cemetery. The coffin-bearers were:—Messrs. J. Cogley, P. Martin, J. Hay and S. West. The Very Rev. Dean MacCullagh solemnised the burial service. Mr. W. Farmer conducted the funeral.

Obituary of William Harker Kipling

By 1881, Jonathan was the sole family member still at Swallow Holm, farming 8 acres and also still mining lead. He died unmarried in 1889.

Finally, John and Eleanor had left Plantation House between 1853 and 1855 for the Durham coalfields. They added to their family there but both died in 1858 in Cockfield, Durham from typhus fever.

By 1861, eldest son William was a lead miner, living with his grandparents at Swallow Holm. He later became an iron worker at Darlington.

His military records show that he was posted to France in 1915, suffered from shell-shock in 1916, was wounded in 1917 and returned home. He rose to the rank of Lance Sergeant. He was then hospitalised with influenza in 1919 and discharged in 1920 at the end of his six year commitment.

There is on record a communication in 1921 from his wife Lily (Elizabeth Anne, nee Thompson, whom he had married in 1916) enquiring of his whereabouts, stating that she is formally separated from him on grounds of persistent cruelty and that he had ceased to pay the maintenance for their child (John Thompson Kipling, b 1918).

Jonathan died in 1958 in Holderness, East Yorkshire. John Thompson Kipling died in 2007 in the North Tyneside area.

John and Eleanor's next son, John, was a tailor's apprentice in Muker, Swaledale in 1861 and later became a railway goods guard at York (#265).

James's life after 1911 was very curious. In 1916, Annie Kipling, formerly Stewart, gave birth to a son Arthur James¹ at West Derby in Liverpool. The father was registered as James Kipling, journeyman tailor.

Annie and her son were admitted to Liverpool Workhouse the same day, when they stayed until 4 March.

In 1930 in West Derby, James Kipling aged 69, tailor, widower, son of John Kipling, coal miner, married Harriett Hilda Dixon, formerly Stewart, the divorced wife of Samuel Dixon.² Given her age, it seems likely that Harriett was the Annie of 1916.

² Harriett Hilda Stewart was born in Maryport in 1874. In 1891, she was living with her father at Disington near Whitehaven, working as a domestic servant. She married Samuel Dixon in Kendal in 1896. They were living together with one son in Ambleside in 1901.

In 1911, Samuel was living with his brother, still in Ambleside, with his son, two younger daughters but no Harriet, who is nowhere else to be found.

However, when younger son Rudyard, a steel sawyer, married in Newcastle in 1921, he recorded his father as James Kipling, tailor (journeyman), deceased.

James's wife Mary may actually have died in Newcastle in 1927, possibly explaining why he only married Harriett/Annie in 1930.

Eldest son James Edward had a family of his own back in Newcastle and was an ordinance engineer (#216).

Henry and Annie had a son Henry Havelock in 1949. Young Henry seems to have emigrated to Canada, as he is referenced in a 2003 court case in the following terms “Henry Havelock Kipling, also known as Alan Kipling, was employed with the plaintiff doing sign display installations for four years prior to his departure in January 1996, whereupon he began work with the defendant company as a vinyl layout worker.”

Henry and Emma also had children Charles (1915), Emma (1916) and Ruth (1917). Emma senior died in Newcastle in 1956 but I cannot find a record of Henry's death.

In 1839, Thomas and his brother James were signatories of a petition from the parish to be removed for the Richmond Poor Law Union and to form a separate union with similar Swaledale mining parishes, for the purpose of better administering poor relief in these remote areas. The Reeth Poor Law Union was duly formed in 1840.

To the Poor Law Commissioners of England and Wales

The memorial of the Minister, Churchwardens, Guardian of the Poor, Overseers, and other Inhabitants of the Parish of Arkengarthdale, respectfully sets forth - That this Parish forms part of the Richmond Union; which comprises 46 Parishes & Townships, embracing a vast extent of Surface; of which the Population of 42 is almost entirely engaged in, or dependent on agriculture.

That the Population of this Parish and the adjacent Townships of Reeth, Grinton & Marnick is principally composed of persons working in, or otherwise dependent on Lead Mines.

In 1871, Thomas was working as a labourer in an iron works at Darlington. Ann and son Thomas were with him, the latter being noted as being an ‘imbecile’.

Thomas senior died in 1877 and the 1881 census shows Ann still in Darlington with son Thomas and a lodger. Ann died later that year. Thomas may have initially been cared for by his sister or brother in Middlesbrough but became a patient at the Yorkshire Asylum in York in 1884, where he died in 1886.

His brother, William was in 1871 working as railway platelayer in Normanby near Middlesbrough. He was living with his sister Elizabeth, whose first husband had died and who had married farmer Israel Almond in 1867.

William married Catherine Bramley in 1873 although not without first sowing some wild oats in Bowes.³

William Kipling of Middlesbrough, plate-layer, was charged by Mary Ann Stoddart, of Bowes, with being the putative father of her illegitimate child. Order made for 1s 6d per week.

Teesdale Mercury. 5 Apr 1865

By 1881, William and Catherine had children Maria and William.

Catherine died in 1883 (followed a few weeks later by new-born daughter Catherine) and William in 1889. The orphaned Maria then went to live with her cousin Joseph Place and William with his aunt Elizabeth, both still in Normanby.

In 1901, Maria was housekeeper to her grandfather, Thomas Bramley near Thirsk and in 1911 was working for a clergyman in Spennithorne near Leyburn (#269).

³ There is a close y-chromosome DNA match to ‘Stoddart’. This could possibly be the link, although I have yet to identify the child.

In 1871, John Liddle Kipling was working in the dale at Low Faggergill, as shepherd for his uncles William and Christopher Liddle, who farmed 100 acres (most probably of moorland). Brother William had joined the farm as a labourer by 1881. By 1891, John Liddle Kipling and his wife Mary (nee Metcalfe) had taken over the farm from his uncles. William died in 1900 and John and Mary continued to run the farm (#278 in 1911).
