

The Kiplings of Newhouses in the 17th century

In 1600, this family was headed by John Kipling (see ‘The Kiplings of Baldersdale’ for his ancestry). His sons were William, John, Charles and Lionel. He also had at least one daughter, Frances. William himself already had a son John.

In 1620, John and his son witnessed the will and appraised the inventory of William Cradock (of Baldersdale).

In 1622, the baptism was recorded at Brough of “Isabell, daughter of John Kipling of Baldersdale, bast: of the which Lionell Kipling his son and Arthur Steadman and Thomas Salkend .... give surtie...”.

He was clearly fertile well into old age, as a son Henry was probably born (and was certainly baptised) in May 1625, presumably to wife Margaret (although whether she was his only wife is not known).

Margaret died in 1625 (February, nine months after the birth of son Henry) and John in June 1628. Newhouses passed in August to William.

Generation 2

William inherited the Newhouses tenancy in 1628 but died later the same year and Newhouses passed in October to his son, John<sup>1</sup>. It is possible that his wife, Agnes, had died in 1612.

John farmed at East Louphouse. He had three daughters: Frances (b Brough 1609; m Michael Hodgson of Brough 1629), Jane (1613, m John Burrie of Cotherstone 1637) and Margaret (m. William Colling of Arkengarthdale 1637). Wife Elizabeth died in 1642 and was “buried in y<sup>e</sup> alley beside y<sup>e</sup> font” at St Romalds (there is no record of their marriage).

John died in December 1652.

In the name of God Amen
I, John Kipling of
Ballersdale in the County of York

He left legacies to sons-in-law William Colling and John Burrie, brothers Charles, Henry and Lionel, sister Frances Horne (and Anne Horne, probably Frances’s daughter), grandchild Michael Hodgson and nephew John Kipling (presumably the son of William).

Charles lived at Bowes (see “The Kiplings of Bowes”).

Lionel and Henry lived at Middleton-in Teesdale (see “The Kiplings of Middleton”).

Generation 3

John had children Jane (1634; d 1635), William (1635), Grace (1637), Charles (1639), John (1642), Richard (1644, “baptised at Scoonbank”<sup>2</sup>) and Helen (1646).

John died in 1688 and widow Eleanor/Hellen in 1698. John left a will:

January 10th 1688
In the name of god Amen I John Kipling of Ballersdale in the County of York being now in good

In it, he names his son John...

<sup>1</sup> According to The Kipling Pedigree by Edgar Powell. There is no record of William’s burial at RK, though (nor, indeed, of his son, John’s, baptism).

Imprimis I give and bequeath unto my son John

... son Richard's four children (Richard had died in 1681), son William's four children and daughter Mary's two children, Ralf and Mary (she was the wife of Christopher Parkin, the son of Ralf Parkin). The residue of the estate is shared between Christopher and Mary and widow Elinor. There is no reference to daughters Grace or Hellen, not to son Charles.

Charles and John lived in London (see "Newhouses Kipling in London") and Richard in Lartington.

Generation 4

William married Isabell Dowthwaite in 1660 at RK. A son, John may have been baptised later that year (transcribed as burial however). Other children included Charles (1662), Hellinor (1664, Dalehead). William (1666 Birk Hatt), Richard (1670) and Jane (1675). From William's will (1718), we know also of children John (eldest son), Hester and Mary.

Richard probably married Jane Hutchinson in 1671 at RK. Their children were John (1674), Ellin (1680), Henry and William (baptisms untraced). Richard lived at Lartington. He was a hosier and died in Lanchester in 1681.

Richard's sons John and William went to London (see "Newhouses Kiplings in London").

In 1692/3, William and a Henry Kipling appraised the estate of George Dent of Baldersdale. Note the similarity of William's signature to that above.

A photograph of a document showing four handwritten signatures in cursive. The first line reads 'William Kipling', the second 'George Dent', the third 'Henry Kipling', and the fourth 'Jonathan Coates'. The signatures are written in dark ink on a light-colored paper.

Henry was probably Richard's son and the Henry Kipling "of Newhouses, Schoolmas<sup>t</sup>" who died in 1696.

Generation 5

John married Elizabeth Dent in 1695. Children Elizabeth (1696) and Hellen (1698, Dalehead) were born before the start of the 18th century.

Charles was apprenticed to a London gunsmith and, later, his younger brother Richard was apprenticed to him.

Hellinor/Elliner may have married James Hutchinson in 1684.

It is not known what happened to William.
