Over the years, a number of Kiplings have been sentenced to transportation. Not all of the sentences were carried out.

Charles Kipling of Cliffe

In 1749, John Snarr of Cliffe near Selby in the East Riding discovered a sum of £7 was missing from his house. On making enquiries locally, he discovered that a Charles Kipling, who had previously been broke, exchanged some silver in buying a pint of ale. On visiting Kipling's employer, he found that Kipling had absconded. Snarr went to Selby ferry, where he discovered that a man fitting Kipling's description had crossed and lodged the previous night at the Cross Guns Inn, losing money at cards. Snarr pursued him further and caught up with him at Deighton on the road to York, arresting him with the help of the constable and finding £3 13s upon him.

He was imprisoned at York Castle. At the following assizes, Charles admitted the theft, stating that he had been a sailor in a vessel lost or stranded Scotland.

Who declares that about 2 map last he was a servant to Christopher Richardson Master of a Vessel, and that the sd. Vessel was lost or stranded in Scotland; and he this Examinant went in a Vessel Master W<sup>m</sup> Hammond, from Scotland to Hull, immediately after he arrived at Hull he came to York, and from thence he went to Sherburn, at which place he has been educated as a free boy

He later took ship to Hull, came to York and thence to Sherburn where he had been educated as a free boy (see "The Kiplings of York"). He later moved to work at Cliffe, where he apparently only received food and lodgings in return for his work.

York, July 11. The following Prisoners, in the Castle of York, are to be tried this Assizes, viz.
Charles Kipling, for entering the House of John Snarr of Longcliff, and breaking open a Chest of Drawers, and taking the Sum of 7 l.

Newcastle Courant - Saturday 08 July 1749

He was sentenced to transportation (to America) for 7 years.

Last Friday the Assizes ended on the Crown Side, for this County, when William Carr, Mary Johnson, Richard Hepworth, and Charles Kipling, received Sentence of Transportation for seven Years:

Robert Kipling (pardoned)

Records of the Old Bailey 1773

ROBERT KIPPLING was indicted for stealing fourteen guineas , the property of William Blake , and Christopher Paxton , Feb. 23 . ++

Acquitted .

He was a second time indicted for stealing one printed book bound in leather, entitled, Advice to a Friend, value 1 s. one other printed book, entitled, The Oeconomy of Human Life, value 1 s. one other printed book, entitled, The New Art of Letter-writing, in two parts, value 1 s. and one other printed book, entitled, A Comparative View of the State and Faculties of Man, &c. value 1 s. the property of Robert Scruton, Feb. 24th .

Robert Scruton . Mr. Blake came to my house the 24th of February last, and told me Kipling, who had been our porter, had robbed him, and that on searching his box he had found some books, and asked him how he came by them; he said his master in Yorkshire gave them to him; I told him I had missed two books, one Advice to a Friend, the other The Oeconomy of Human Life; he said they were two of the books in the box; I went with him; the constable was there; we opened the box and found the four books; they are all mine; I took them out of the box.

William Vose . I am a constable: the prosecutor came to Mr. Blake's; I happened to be there; he said he had missed some books, and described two or three of them to me; the prisoner was then at the Compter; I went to him for the key of the box and found these four books in it; they have been in my custody ever since.

Scruton. One of them has my name upon it.

Mr. Blake. In searching this man's box I discovered the book, one of which was, The Comparative View: I charged him with taking them from somebody; he said his master in the country gave them to him; I locked the box and gave the key to the prisoner; I went to Mr. Scruton's, and told him of it, and he came and owned the books.

Prisoner's Defence.

The books I know nothing at all about.

For the Prisoner.

William Sowerby . I have known the prisoner between 16 and 17 years; he always was a very honest sober young man ever since I knew him.

Edward Hopkins . I am a publican: I have known the prisoner 15 or 16 years; he is a very honest sober man.

John Johnson . I have known the prisoner ever since he was born; he came of very honest parents: I never heard a misdemeanor of him in my life.

Guilty . T .

Yesterday the following prisoners were convicted at the Old Bailey, to be transported, viz. Mary Frekins, for stealing a piece of thread lace, the property of Messrs. Chambers and Langdon, Haberdashers, in Cheapside; Robert Kipling, for stealing four books, the property of Robert Scruton;

John Kipling of Hull

A second John Kipling was born in Hull around 1800. He was sentenced in 1829 at York to be transported for 14 years for embezzlement.

At John Kipling (28), charged with embezzling various sums of money, the property of his employer, Mary Nicholson, of Bawtry, spirit-merchant.

York Herald, 1 August 1829

John Kipling, aged 28, formerly of the city of York, was charged with having embezzled various sums of money, to a considerable amount, which he had received by virtue of his employment, as clerk to Mrs. Mary Nicholson, of Bawtry. There were seven distinct indictments against the prisoner, all of a similar description, to all of which he pleaded Guilty. Mr. Justice LITTLEDALE said—Prisoner, you have pleaded guilty. I must tell you, that if you expect to receive a less punishment by so doing, you are mistaken. Your punishment will be the same as if you were found guilty. Prisoner—I am aware of that, my Lord; and beg that plea may be recorded. The JUBAS—Then you continue to plead guilty. The Prisoner—Yes, my Lord.

On arrival he was sent to work at Newcastle Hospital. Records show that he had £1 13/6 on account with the Savings Bank of NSW on 8 May 1830. There is no record of him ever claiming this amount however.

In 1832, there was an unsuccessful petition for his release.

To the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Home Department

The humble petition of Mary Nicholson of Pawtry in the County of York Widow and several Inhabitants of Pawtry aforesaid and of the City of York

Sheweth

That John Kipling late of Pawtry in the County of York Confidential Clerk to your petitioner Mary Nicholson was indicted by her at the Assizes held at York in and for the said County of York in August one thousand eight hundred and twenty nine for embezzling from your petitioner Mary Nicholson divers sums of money to a large amount and was found guilty of such offence and was thereupon sentenced to be transported beyond the seas for the space of fourteen years which sentence the said John Kipling is now undergoing in New South Wales

That the said John Kipling lived with your petitioner Mary Nicholson as confidential Clerk <sup>four years</sup> and that he previously resided in the city of York

That your petitioners believe that the said John Kipling was led to commit the said offence from becoming acquainted with bad Company by which he was led into excesses he could not honestly provide for

That your petitioners are of opinion that the said John Kipling feels truly contrite for the commission of the said offence and that if his sentence were commuted he would again become an useful member of Society

Your petitioners therefore humbly pray that you will be pleased to lay the facts of this Petition before His Majesty who your petitioners pray will graciously deign to take the facts of this petition into consideration and to grant a commutation of the said sentence against the said John Whiting as to his said Majesty shall seem meet And your petitioners will ever pray &c.

CAPTURE OF BURGLARS.—On Monday, William Kipling, John Smith, John Venables, and John Triphook, alias Royal, well known convicted thieves, were finally examined before Mr. Corrie, charged with having been concerned in a burglary in the dwelling-house of Mr. J. Bromley, 3, Great Ormond-street, Queen-square, and also with numerous other burglaries. It appeared from the evidence of Mr. Bromley, whose face exhibited marks of violence, that on Friday evening week he retired to rest with his wife, after the doors, &c., had been carefully fastened. About 5 o'clock on the following morning he was alarmed out of his sleep by a noise in the lower part of the house, when he got up, and on proceeding to the back yard, perceived a light in the kitchen. On asking "Who's there?" he received no reply, and on entering the passage the prisoner Kipling rushed into his arms. They struggled together, and the prisoner got from him. He then seized Smith, and, while struggling with him, Kipling gave him a blow on the head with some weapon, which rendered him nearly senseless. Mrs. Bromley, who was aroused out of her sleep, called "Police," but before the arrival of assistance the prisoners made their escape from the house. Considerable property of value was found packed up all ready to have been removed from the premises. Information was given at the station, in Hunter-street, Brunswick-square, with a description of the thieves, who were well known to Inspector Cheakly and the officers, when Coffee and Smeo, detective officers of the E division, went to work and apprehended the whole of the prisoners at a house called the "Rookery," in Carey-street, St. Giles's, where they found skeleton and picklock keys and other implements of housebreaking. Mr. and Mrs. Bromley positively identified the prisoners Kipling and Smith, but they denied the charge. They, however, were fully committed for trial. Coffee, the officer, said that he had traced numerous burglaries and other robberies to have been committed by the prisoners in the neighbourhood of Gravesend, and the stolen property was found in their possession, the owners of which were now in attendance to identify the articles produced and to prosecute. Mr. Corrie said, there was every probability of Kipling and Smith being convicted and transported for the burglary at Mr. Bromley's, but if by any chance they should be acquitted they might again be apprehended and taken down to Gravesend, to which place he would send Venables and Triphook, alias "Royal," to be examined by the magistrates of that place. Coffee and Smeo said the whole of the prisoners had been convicted of felony, and they could produce certificates to that effect against them.

Joseph Ackroyd Kipling of Bradford

Joseph was born in Bradford in 1836, the son of Robert Kipling and his wife Sarah (nee Ackroyd). See 'Staindrop 1911 (Bradford)'.

He seems to have first come to the attention of the authorities in 1854 and more seriously in 1856.

At the Borough Court, on Monday, three young men, named John Tordoff, Joseph Ripley, and Henry Clarke, were charged with having committed sundry damages at the porter vaults of Mr. Town, in Ivegate. It was alleged that persons were in the habit of playing pranks at the place, which resulted in the damage of property. In one instance recently, Tordoff and Kipling had, in attempting to light a cigar in the complainant's place of business, broken or injured a gas pendant, by which 3s. 6d. damage was incurred; and in another prank, Clark and Kipling had damaged the long-seating, whereby 5s. 6d. damage was sustained. In the first case, Tordoff and Kipling were ordered to pay 11s. 6d. each, including costs and damages, with the alternative of going for 14 days to the House of Correction; and in the second, Clark and Kipling, were ordered to pay 17s., including costs and damages, with the alternative of going for 14 days to the House of Correction.

Bradford Observer - Thursday 19 January 1854

THE STOLEN TROUSERS.—On Saturday evening a pair of brown cotton cord trousers was missed from the shop door of Mr. Joseph Stewart, of Westgate, and on information being given to the police, P.C. Tomlinson apprehended a young man named John Jennings, a stonemason, from Heaton, with the trousers in his possession; but as it appeared he had bought them of one Joseph Ackroyd Kipling, for 4s. at an early hour on Sunday morning, at a low brothel in Longlands, the police also apprehended Kipling as implicated in the robbery. On Monday both Jennings and Kipling were brought before the Mayor. Evidence was offered by Jennings of the sale of the trousers to him by Kipling for 4s. Kipling did not deny the fact, but alleged that he had bought the trousers of a boy for 5s. Kipling (who is an old offender) was committed for two months to the House of Correction.

ASSAULT ON A WOMAN. — On Sunday evening, Detective Shuttleworth was in Longlands Street, warning witnesses who had to appear at the Leeds Sessions. He saw a man named Kipling kick with his heavy boots a woman named Theresa Watson, on the legs, chest, and abdomen. He interfered, and would himself have been assaulted, had he not stood in his own defence. The woman screamed fearfully. It appeared that her assailant was her paramour. Shuttleworth was compelled to lock them both up, in order to ensure their safety. The man was brought up at the Borough Court, on Monday, and committed to the House of Correction with hard labour for four months. Shuttleworth stated that the treatment of prostitutes by their paramours in Longlands Street is dreadful. There was one poor woman now laid ill, and he believed she would never get over it, from the severe kicks she had received in the chest; and parties in that neighbourhood dared not come forward to give evidence.

TILL ROBBERY.—At the Borough Court, on Monday, before the Mayor, Wm. Murgatroyd, Esq., and H. W. Ripley, Esq., a young man named Joseph Kipling, was charged with stealing money from the till of Mr. J. Parkinson, tobacconist, of Market Street. Mr. James Parkinson stated that on Saturday, about one o'clock, he left his shop for about a minute and a half, and on his return he found the prisoner laid across the counter with the till open and his hand in it. He asked him what he was doing, and he immediately ran out of the shop and along the street. He followed him, but was unable to overtake him. He was captured by two men and brought back to the shop. He asked him what he had got, and he said 5s., which he produced. He then searched him and found that, altogether, he had four halfcrowns, one shilling, sixpence, and fivepence in copper, besides a number of pawntickets. He afterwards allowed him to go. Inspector Hartley, however, subsequently apprehended the prisoner, who told him he thought he would have difficulty in making out a case. Detective Shuttleworth, in answer to inquiry from the bench, said that the prisoner had been frequently in custody and had once been sentenced to penal servitude for four years for stealing a pair of boots. The prisoner was committed for trial. Mr. J. G. Hutchinson appeared for the prisoner.

Bradford Observer - Thursday 21 February 1861

AN IMPUDENT TILL ROBBER COMMITTED.—A young man, named Joseph Kipling, who only a short time ago returned from a four years' compulsory criminal exile, was charged with having, on Saturday, robbed the till in the shop of Mr. James Parkinson, tobacconist, in the Old Market-place. The proprietor had gone out for a moment, and on his return found the prisoner lying across the counter with his hand in the till. He was instantly seized, and confessed that he had got out 5s., but brought 11s. 10d. from his pocket, which Mr. Parkinson retained, not knowing how much the prisoner had actually obtained, but as a crowd was gathering about the door he allowed Kipling to get away. The thief, however, was apprehended soon after by Inspector Hartley. Mr. J. G. Hutchinson, for the defence, urged that by Mr. Parkinson allowing his client to slip the case had been compromised, but this the bench could not believe, and as the character given of him by Inspector Shuttleworth was not very promising, he was again committed for trial.

IMPUDENT ROBBERY.—Yesterday, at the Wakefield Court-house, before T. H. Holdsworth, Esq., J. Barff, Esq., D. B. Kendall, Esq., W. Shaw, Esq. (Mayor), and T. Haigh, Esq. (ex-Mayor), Joseph Kipling, who, it was stated, has often been in trouble before, was charged with stealing 4½ yards of cloth, the property of Mr. John Woodhead, of Teale-street. It seemed that on Friday afternoon the prisoner went into the shop of the prosecutor during the temporary absence of the latter, but he did not get away before the prosecutor returned, and on him was found the cloth already mentioned. The prisoner was committed for trial at the sessions.

Clara - arrived in WA in 1864

This 708 ton ship was built in Sunderland in 1853. It was employed twice as a convict transport for Western Australia and left London, England on January 11, 1864 bound for the Swan River Colony. On this second voyage she carried the thirtieth of 37 shipments of male convicts destined for Western Australia. The voyage took 93 days and the Clara arrived in Fremantle on April 13, 1864 with 112 passengers and 301 convicts [Erickson]. R. Burrows and William Crawford were the captain and surgeon respectively.

There were no deaths recorded on the convict shipping and description lists and 301 convict numbers were assigned for the voyage ranging from (7608 to 7908). [Bateson] seems to agree with both other sources on this occasion.

Of the 112 passengers mentioned above, 87 were pensioner guards and their families, the number being made up of 28 pensioner guards, 20 wives, 21 sons and 18 daughters. The other 25 passengers have not been accounted for but were possibly cabin passengers or regular soldiers.

The surgeon's journal for the voyage is preserved in the Public Record Office (PRO) in London. Researchers can view a copy on the Australian Joint Copying Project (AJCP) microfilm reel 3181 which is held in most major libraries and archives offices throughout Australia.

Researchers may also be interested in another source which Ian Nicholson's "Log of Logs" says is only held at the Australian National Library in Canberra. Apparently it was called "A Voice of our Exiles or the 'Clara' Weekly Journal" and was possibly edited by Francis S. Simpson who was convict (7846) on the voyage.
