

THE KIPLING FAMILY HISTORY NEWSLETTER #33 NOVEMBER 2026

This year, the newsletter has an international flavour, with articles on slave-owners in the West Indies, Kipling as middle names in 18th century India, the US Civil War, and a barber-surgeon in England. Plus a couple of London parish 'removals'.

Kiplings and Slavery - update

In Newsletter #27, there was an account of Luke Kipling, a Jamaican slave owner of the 1750s. The newly-released 1813 Trinidad 'Register of Personal Slaves', shows that the heirs of a William and Mary Kipling of Port of Spain also owned (three) slaves. I have not yet found out who William and Mary were.

Kiplings in the US Civil War

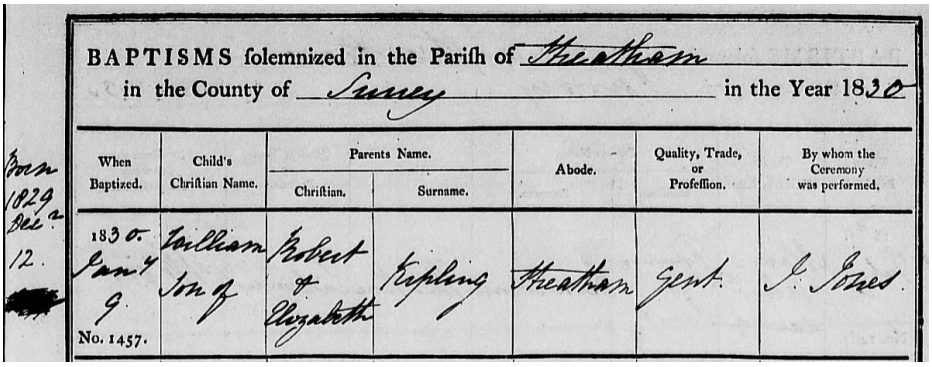

At least seven Kiplings are recorded as having served during the US Civil War, all on the Union side. Those identified so far are:

- William Kipling, 3rd Regiment, US Artillery (Regular Army)
- Robert Burns Kipling, Private, 12th Regiment, Indiana Cavalry
- Thomas L. Kipling, Private, 128th Regiment, Indiana Infantry
- William N. Kipling, Private, 99th Regiment, Indiana Infantry
- Thomas Kipling, Private, 16th Regiment, Illinois Infantry
- Richard Kipling, jr., Private, 22nd Regiment, New York State Militia
- Francis J Kipling, US Navy

I have begun to research them in detail. Here's the first one.

William Kipling, 3rd Regiment, US Artillery (Regular Army)

William was born in England, in Streatham, Surrey, the son of Robert and Elizabeth Kipling of the Dean family group (see Stockings).

and whereas I have unto my beloved Wife Maria Howard and Elizabeth Kipling all of Calcutta in Bengal aforesaid and to the said Survivors

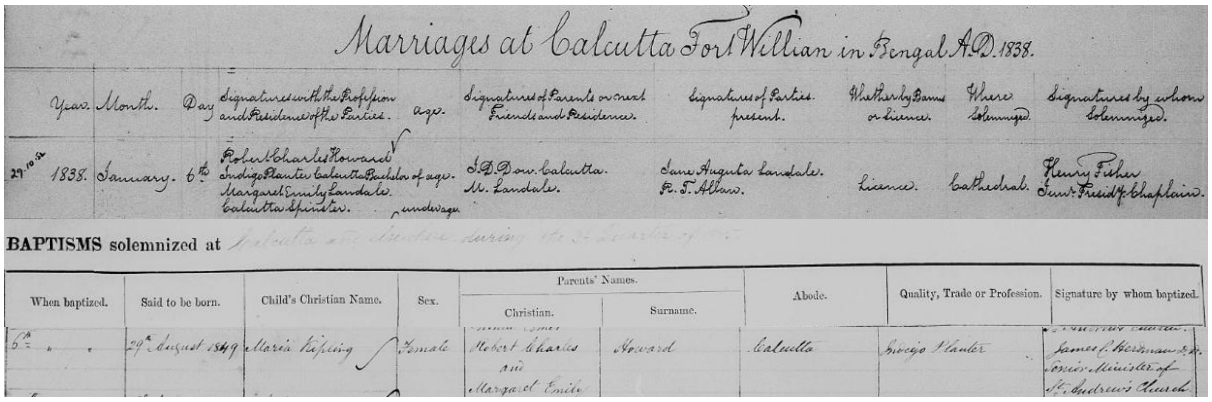

Elizabeth Kipling may have been the India-born daughter of that name of Captain Ambrose Kipling. She was recorded returning to India from England in 1809 (see Captain Ambrose Kipling.pdf). It is possible that she was either a close friend or favoured employee of the Howard. I have found no further records of Elizabeth after 1831. Nor have I found any possible alternative Kipling connection.

There is a memorial to Maria in Gullane Churchyard, East Lothian, Scotland, which records her death in Ealing in 1919, and that her daughter Margaret Louise died in India.

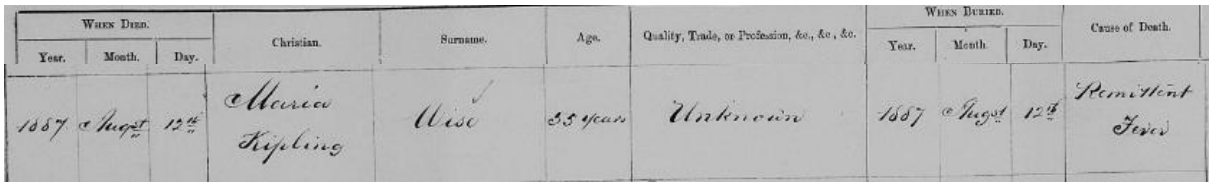

Further research may reveal more of Maria's life, whether in India, Scotland or South-east England.

Even more mysteriously, at Dacca in 1831, George Wise, an indigo planter like Robert Charles Howard, named his daughter Maria Kipling Wise.

I have so far been unable to establish any connection with Kiplings.

Richard Kipling, 18th century Gateshead surgeon

Richard Kipling was a son of Charles Kipling of Egglesburne in Middleton-in-Teesdale (see The Kiplings of Middleton-in-Teesdale). He was apprenticed to a Gateshead barber-surgeon in 1695, becoming a freeman of the company in 1703.

BARBER-SURGEONS AND CHANDLERS OF NEWCASTLE.

By D. EMBLETON, M.D.

[Appended is a continuation of the paper read by Dr Embleton to the Newcastle Society of Antiquaries, on Wednesday, February 25, 1891.]

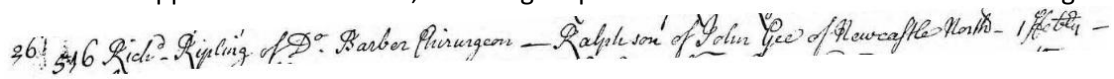

Richard Kipling Son of Charles Kipling of Eglesburne in the County of Durham, gent appr to Thos. Robinson 31 March 1695.

The Newcastle Weekly Courant, 5 December 1891

In 1707, he married Dorothy Taylor at Gateshead. They had daughters Jane (1708) and Hannah (1710) before Dorothy died in 1711. The same year his father died and left him

In 1713, he married Eden Gething and had children Charles (1714, d1714), Elinor (1715, d1717), Margery (1717) and Richard (1721-26).

He took on apprentices of his own, including Ralph Gee of Newcastle and Thomas Fothergill:

26 Aug 96 Richd Kipling of Dr Barber Chirurgeon — Ralph son of John Gee of Newcastle North 1 Feb 17

In 1759 Thomas Fothergill, having served seven years with Richard Kipling, an apothecary of Newcastle upon Tyne, was made free of the Society of Apothecaries of London by redemption with a fine of £11 45.[80]

We can see where Richard lived /worked in 1727:

To be LETT or SOLD,

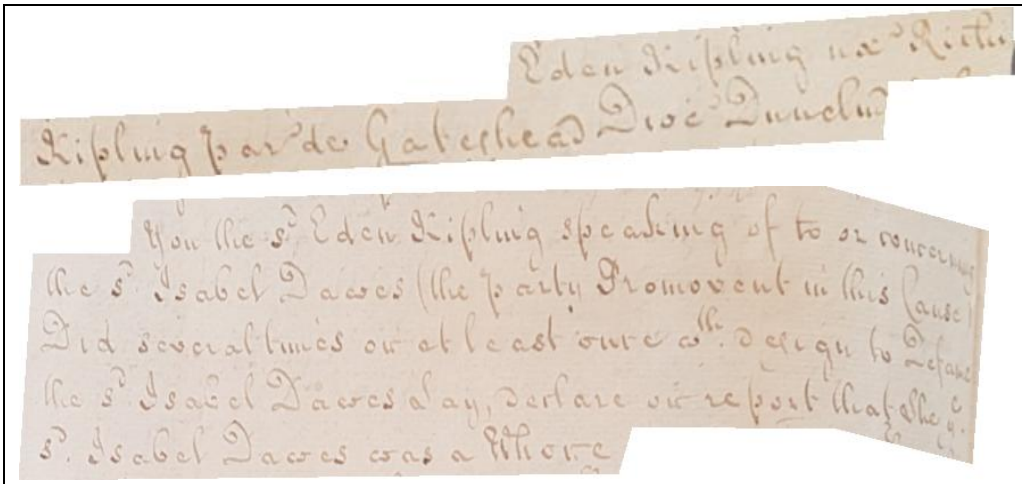

A Large Houſe, with a good Shop and Cellaring in Gateſhead, near Pipewell-gate; Part of it now in the Poſſeſſion of Mr. Richard Kipling, Surgeon. They may go to Mr. Mark Browell Attorney at Law in Newcaſtle, and he will treat with them about the ſame.

Newcastle Courant - Saturday 02 December 1727

The same year, he was mentioned in the will of Isaac Heron of Newcastle, shoemaker, as one of the tenants of a property in The Side in Newcastle.

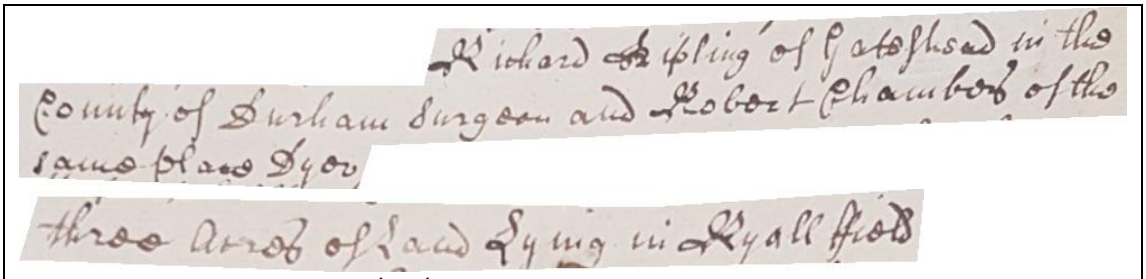

In 1732, Eden was accused in the diocesan court of defamation against an Isabel Dawes. The outcome is not known.

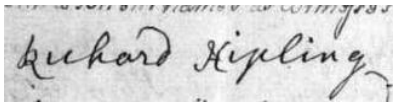

Durham University Library DDR/EJ/PRC/2/1732/4

In 1742, Richard and Robert Chambers, dyer, acquired as trustees three pieces of copyhold land in Sedgefield from Richard's son-in law Benjamin Ord (who had married daughter Jane I 1733). They consisted of 3a of land in Ryall Field, 6a forming part of land known as the Noble Rent and a close of one oxgang called East End Close.

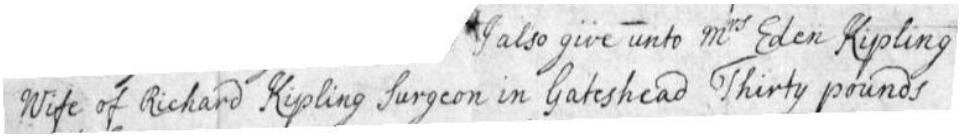

Durham University Library DHC2/M2/418

In 1744, Richard was mentioned in the will of John Sisson of Newcastle, excise officer, as being co-tenant of The Half Moon in Newcastle: he also witnessed the will.

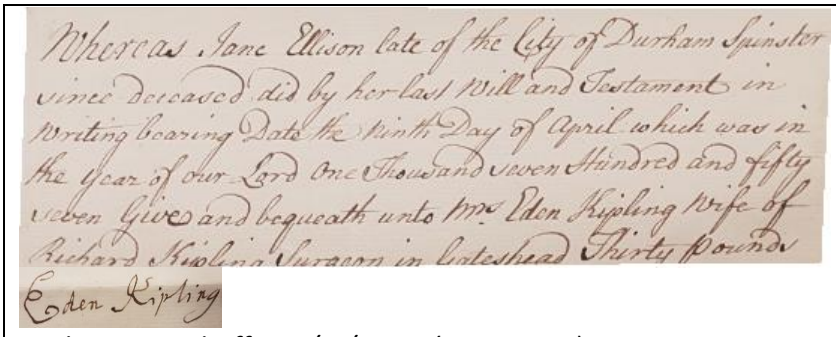

Durham University Library DPR/I/1/1744/S9/1-2

Richard died in 1758, being buried at Gateshead. The following year, Eden was left a legacy in the will of Jane Ellison of Elvet near Durham

But she had to go to court to attempt to get payment

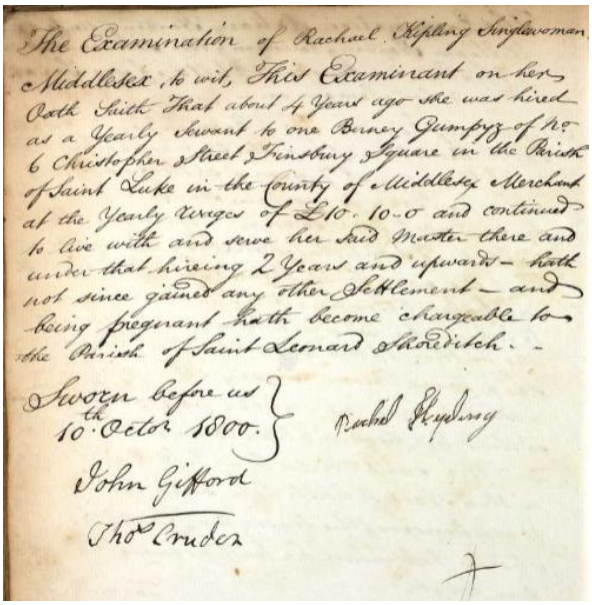

Durham Record Office D/Br/D 947 (3 Nov 1757)

Eden died in 1765, also being buried at Gateshead. For Richard's full story, see Richard Kipling barber surgeon.pdf

Two London parish removals

Under the old poor laws, each parish in England was responsible for assisting the the poor and sick of its own parish. If you moved away, and then needed help, the parish where you lived was usually unwilling to assist unless you had gained settlement there, perhaps by marriage or apprenticeship. If someone was reluctant to move, parishes could ask two Justices for an order allowing them to forcibly return them to their parish of origin or most recent settlement. Often, this was done to single women expecting children they were considered unlikley to be able to support. Rachael Kipling, who was unmarried and pregnant, was the subject of a removal order in 1800, having first been exmined about her circumstances.

THESE are therefore in his Majeſty's Name to require you the Churchwardens and Overſeers of the Poor of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Leonard, Shoreditch, Middleſex, on Sight hereof, to remove and convey the ſaid Rachael Kipling Singlewoman from and out of your ſaid Pariſh of St. Leonard, unto the ſaid Pariſh of Saint Luke and her deliver unto the Churchwardens and Overſeers of the Poor there, or to ſome or to one of them, together with this our Order or a true Copy hereof, who are hereby required to receive and provide for her according to Law.

Given under our Hands and Seals, this 10 Day of October 1800.

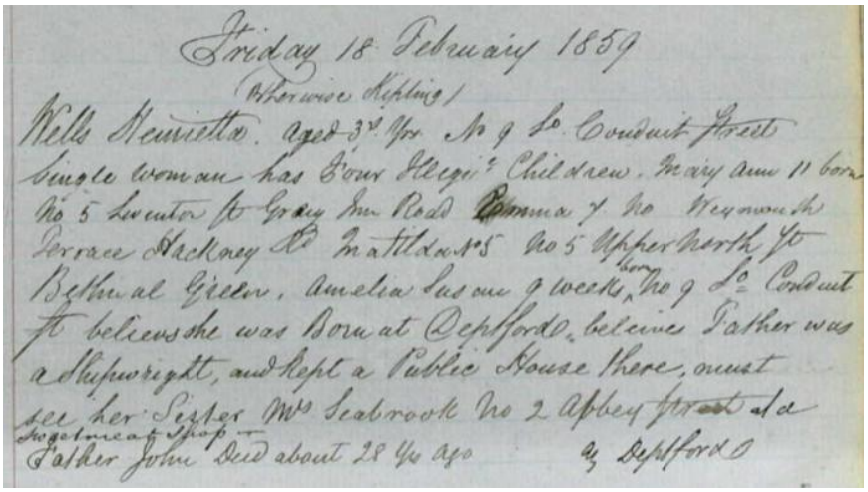

She may be have been the Rachel Kipling born in 1769 in Gilling, Yorkshire, as I have found no other records of her in that county (see The Kiplings of Gilling), which would make her a member of the Barningham family group.

It's likely that she was a daughter of the John Kipling who was a shipwright at Deptford (see The Kipling Shipwrights), who had died about twenty (not 28) years earlier, although I can find no record of her baptism or of her sister Mrs Seabrook.

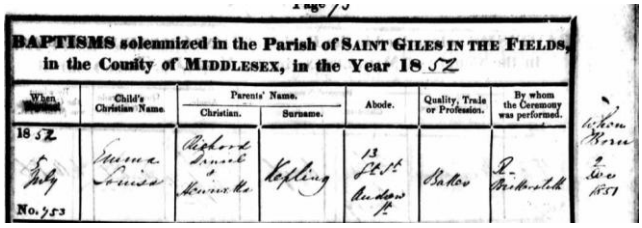

She had been living at Clerkenwell in 1851, albeit claiming she was married.
